During the campaign, 2,300 girls and whole time to special Christian service, 1,900 new missionary societies among the women and young people were organized, 8,400,000 pages of tracts and other literature were dis-tributed in behalf of the campaign and 79,000 letters were sent out and over 33,000 miles were traveled in the interest of the drive by two of the Women's Missionary Union workers.

A total of 3,200 new organizations were formed by Baptist women during study classes were conducted.

Sunday School Board Report. Receipts of the Baptist Sunday school board for the last year were $860,000, according to the twenty-ninth annual report of the board made by Dr. I. J. Van Ness, secretary. The total represents an advance of $227,000 over previous years. Out of its business profits the board expended approximately $140,000 for benevolent and field work not connected with its business. The net assets of the board were shown as $700,000. In addition to its own business, the Sunday school board financed the seventy-five-million-dollar campaign to the extent of $300,000 but the sum was refunded by the various state organizations. In an effort to promote greater efficiency in the rural Sunday schools of the south, a campaign for rural Sunday school extension was carried into various states in co-operation with the state organizations, which resulted in 10,000 separate points be-ing touched by teacher training in-The governor of India was asked dia by advancing money, free of institutes. "This is the year when we must go to the country for the election of a President and Congress. The majority party has been in control for a year. It has taken not one step toward the repeal of war legislation. This is now near the close of the session of Congress. I'm not surprised that my friends on the other side are not willing to close the books without some demonstration of their willingness to meet their responsibility. How are they doing it! At the eleventh hour—11:55—they bring forward a proposal that they know canforward a proposal that they know can not become a law, that cannot be af-fective. I do not blame them, but do they think the American people are blind?"

Senator Myers, democrat, Montana said he opposed the resolution with re-luctance and because it imposed no terms of punishment on Germany or the "I don't believe we will get a treaty until after March 4, 1921," said Sen-ator Myers, "but we had better wait to have terms rather than this reso-lution without any terms."

"It's easy to become intoxicated with power, to be carried away with unusual ambition, and I can sympathize to a degree with the President in his ambition to write for himself an eminent page in history."

The President well posted on current events in Europe, and expressed surprise at seeing the chief executive in such good health.

"It is with deepest, lasting affection, indeed," Prince Lubomirski declared in his speech to the President, "that the people of Poland look to you, the first statesman publicly to proclaim and espouse the right of my country to have access to the sea, in those state papers whose solemn phrases will be uttered by the lips of generations to come with gratitude and with reverence."

Where the merry birds are singing And the flowers gently wave, There our dear daughter and sister is sleeping In her cool and silent grave. We laid her there in sadness.

For our hearts are sick with pain;
But we know that in the morning We shall meet her once again.

Peath has taken our dear daughter and sister
From our home and fond embrace;
But the hour of Joy is coming,
When we shall meet face to face.
